In your course you will have to do the bulk material for the course; including in this is learning activities, weekly readings, etc. There are many ways to access this; you can access through the widget or you can simply click content link. When you do this you will see the content on the left and the info on the right. You will notice that there is a plus and minus sign. You can click the plus sign to expand and the minus sign to contract. Also, you can review the syllabus in the content link. When working with the content area, there are several buttons to use. There is show/hide; when you click it, it will hide, when you click it again will show up again. A really good feature of D2L is the bookmark option. To bookmark a page, you click on the bookmark link and you successfully will bookmark a page. You can also receive feedback from an instructor in the content link; all you have to do is click on the content button once and your feedback will directly go to the instructor for the course. You can also print in the content section. As you will see that content has a lot to offer for your course: weekly readings, presentations, quizzes and discussions. Content is a very helpful place. Under bookmarks, again, is the syllabus. The syllabus is a great place to find very helpful information for the course itself.
